THE SAWMILLS OF IOWA
by
Robert Davidson

INTRODUCTION

This directory of Iowa sawmills is to guide people who have sawtimber for sale, who want logs sawn or who simply want to purchase native lumber. The sawmills are listed alphabetically by county and, within each county, alphabetically by firm or surname of the owner. Where production data was available, the production class of the mill is identified by Roman numeral.

In late 1959 a mail survey of Iowa sawmills was begun to update the directory published in 1953. The survey was completed in 1961. Sawmills were identified through the 1953 directory, State Conservation Commission district foresters and the mailing list of the Iowa Sawmill Operators' Newsletter published by the Cooperative Extension Service, Iowa State University. Mill operators were asked to complete a postcard questionnaire asking whether they were currently operating and, if so, their average annual lumber production in board feet.

All 1,008 mill operators identified in the 1953 directory plus mill operators receiving the Newsletter were sent a postcard questionnaire. All sawmills identified by the district foresters were sent a questionnaire except those which began operating within the last year and had not established an average annual production.

Production data was obtained for 243 of the 580 mills currently operating. A total production of 36,473,000 board feet was reported by these 243 mills. From the 337 mills which did not report average lumber production, the most frequent response was "do custom sawing only." The mills were stratified by production class and identified by Roman numeral as follows:

0 to	5,000 board feet	I
5,000 to	10,000 board feet	II
10,000 to	50,000 board feet	III
50,000 to	100,000 board feet	IV
100,000 to	500,000 board feet	V
500,000 to	1,000,000 board feet	VI
1,000,000 board feet and more		VII

FREQUENCY AND DISTRIBUTION OF MILLS

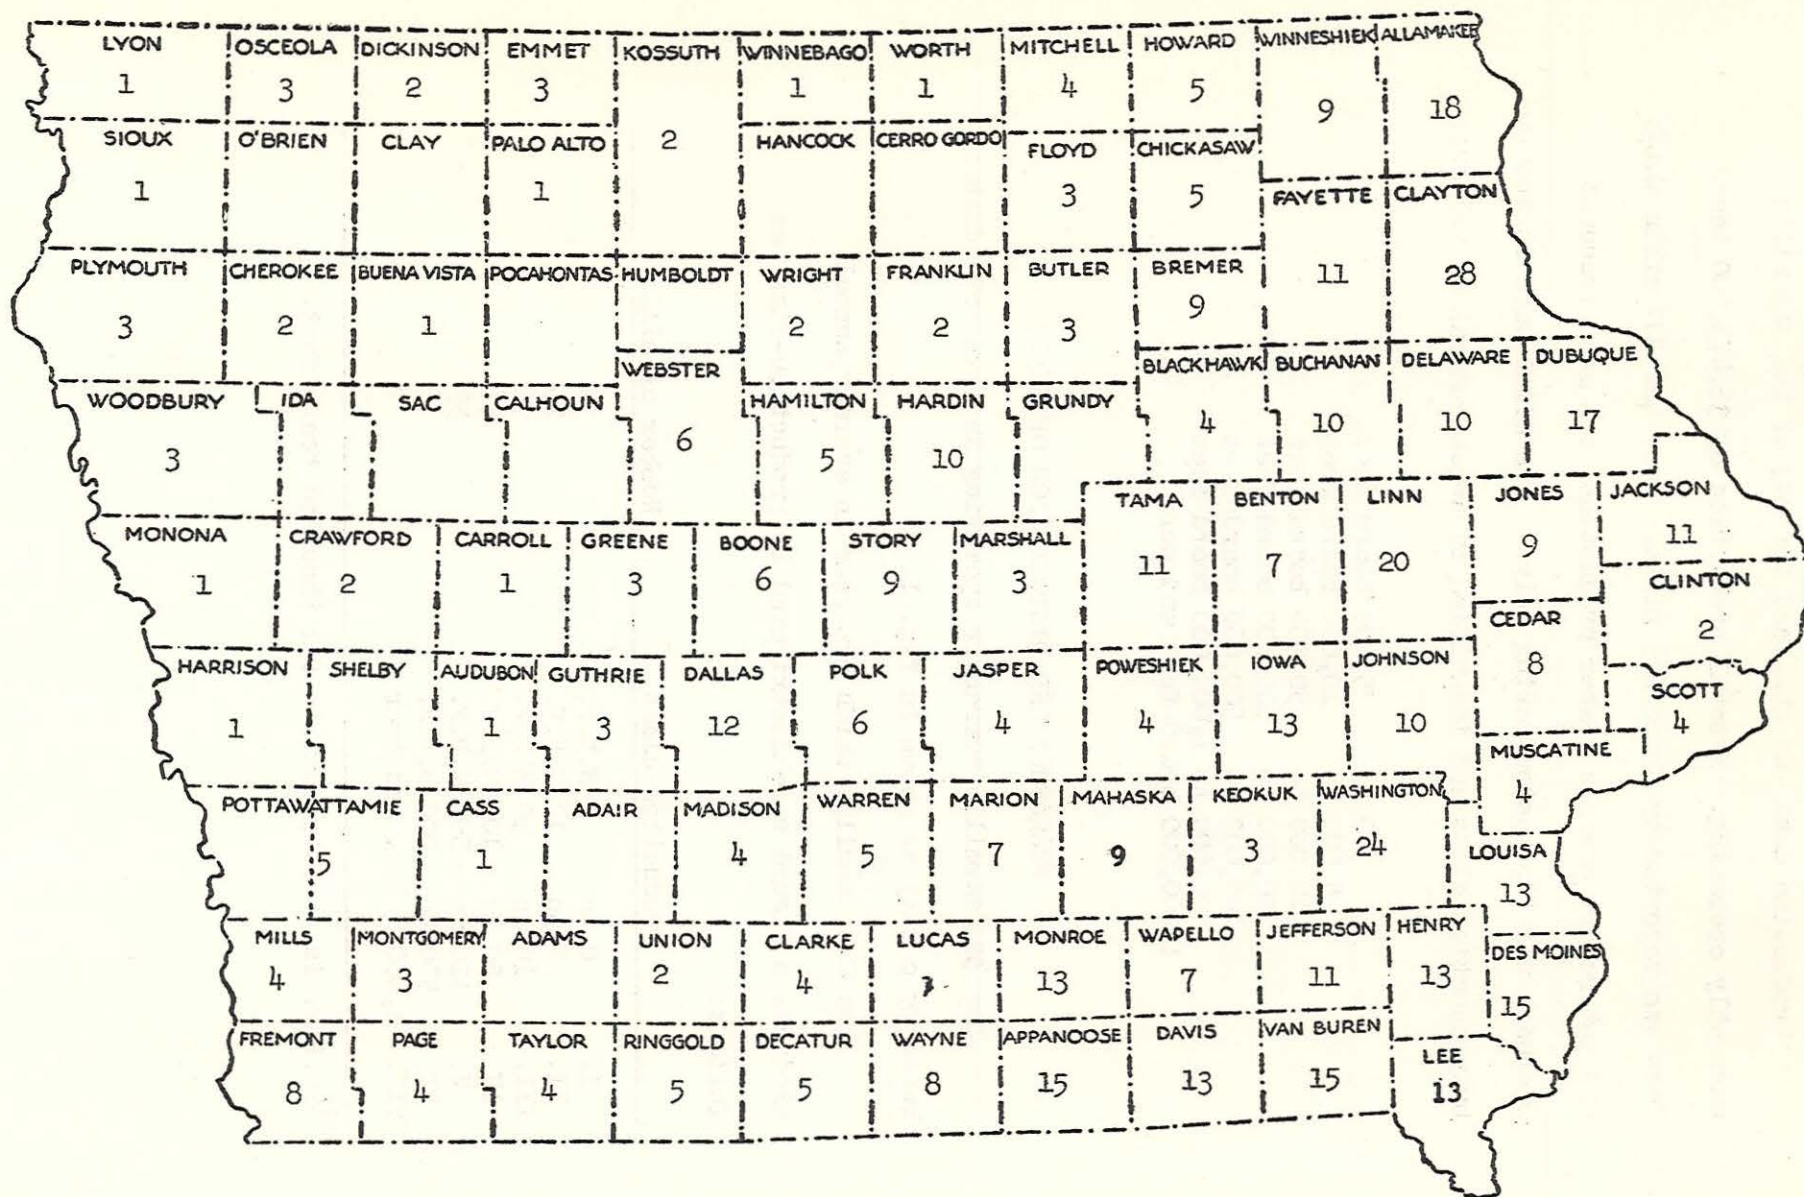

The 580 sawmills currently operating in Iowa were distributed by county as shown in fig. 1.

The 243 sawmills which reported an average annual production figure were distributed by production-class as follows:

	Production class	Number of mills
I.	0 to 5 M.B.F. ^{1/}	15
II.	5 to 10 M.B.F.	19
III.	10 to 50 M.B.F.	76
IV.	50 to 100 M.B.F.	51
V.	100 to 500 M.B.F.	59
VI.	500 to 1,000 M.B.F.	16
VII.	1,000 M.B.F. and over	7

^{1/} M.B.F. is an abbreviation for thousand board feet.

SAWMILL HISTORY AND TRENDS

The first recorded sawmill in Iowa was built in 1829 on the Yellow River in Allamakee County. In 1834 another mill was built on Duck Creek in Scott County to supply lumber to the early settlers in that territory. Other mills followed in 1835 in Des Moines County, in 1837 at Dubuque and in 1838 at Muscatine. The old State Capital Building on the State University of Iowa campus at Iowa City contains much native lumber cut by the first Johnson County sawmill in 1838. The number of mills increased rapidly from that time, especially along the Mississippi River. These mills were the first industries to mark the Mississippi towns as manufacturing centers.

By 1859 there were 540 mills operating in Iowa. A large share of the logs for many mills along the Mississippi were rafted down the river from the forests of the Lake States. These 540 mills produced a total of 183 million board feet of lumber. Twenty-two million feet came from native timberlands, and 161 million feet came from white pine logs rafted down the river. In 1877 Clinton, Iowa, was the largest lumber producing center in the world.

The last year that logs in any quantity were rafted down the Mississippi to Iowa sawmills was 1909. Today the lumber produced in the state is from native-grown timber. The demands of settlers pushed the production of native lumber to 68 million board feet in 1899. Then production declined to an estimated low of 3 to 5 million board feet during the depression years of 1932-36.

Beginning in 1937, the production of native lumber began to increase as the nation's economic situation improved. World War II brought a great increase in demand for lumber. Iowa production jumped from 56 million board feet in 1943 to over 90 million at the end of the war. This does not include the 4 to 5 million board feet of specialty logs shipped to processors outside Iowa for manufacture of furniture, veneers and other fine products.

In 1953, 1,008 sawmills were reported in Iowa. This survey identified 580 mills operating in 1961. More than 583 mills existed in the state in 1961, but this survey sought to identify mill operation rather than mill ownership. Mere ownership with no operation is of little value to people who have stumpage for sale or wish to buy lumber.

In addition to this more restrictive criterion for sawmill identification, recent changes in price and cost relationships have increased the advantage of the larger mills. This is particularly true for mills which have expanded operations from producing only green, rough-sawn lumber to producing surfaced, air-dried lumber and to manufacturing products such as pallets and livestock feeders. For this reason many of the smallest mills operating in 1953 were not operating in 1961, while many of the larger mills have diversified and expanded operations.

MARKETING TIMBER

Management is necessary to grow timber profitably. Good marketing practices are part of good management. Too many timber sales are on "impulse" with little thought to merchantable board-foot volumes involved, prices and marketing alternatives such as veneer logs versus sawlogs.

Way To Sell

Stumpage Sale - Trees sold standing on the stump are sold as "stumpage." The buyer is responsible for cutting, hauling and all woods work. Payment may be made on a lump-sum basis or on the basis of the board-foot volume of standing, merchantable timber. The method based on volume is better for the seller, since it tends to best approximate the true market value of the timber. The buyers stands to gain from a lump-sum sale.

Cut-Product Sale - Timber sold severed from the stump is a cut-product sale. The trees are felled and bucked by the seller, and the logs are sold either stacked at the "roadside" (edge of the woods) or railroad siding, or delivered at the mill. This method is more accurate, since it is easier to measure and grade logs than standing timber. It also permits grading and segregation of the logs for sale to special markets.

Forest products sold at the "roadside" are worth two to three times as much as the same products sold as stumpage. Veneer is an exception to this. Cut-product sales are usually more desirable where farm labor and capital are available for logging.

Veneer buyers prefer to buy standing trees (stumpage), because their experienced loggers can obtain maximum quality and volume from the trees.

How to Sell

1. Contact the district forester to selectively mark the trees ready for harvest and determine board-foot volumes and quality.
2. Contact a minimum of three prospective buyers. Specify species, number of trees, volumes and quality for sale. Invite sealed bids and specify a terminal date by which all bids must be submitted.
3. Sell under written contract to protect both buyer and seller. In a cut-product sale, cut the products after the contract is signed and according to the buyer's specifications.

Timber-Sale Contracts

The essential provisions in a timber sale contract are:

1. Description and location of the timber.
2. Price and manner of payment.
3. Title and means of settling disputes.
4. Duration of the contract.
5. Conditions for cutting and removal, which includes diameters and markings on trees involved in the contract, method of scaling (measuring), utilization and disposal of tops, limbs and debris, and protection of the residual stand from logging injury and fire.
